Duffee Heads Correspondents

Warren S. Duffee of United Press International was elected unanimously yesterday as chairman of the five-member Standing Committee of Correspondents, the governing body of the Congressional Press Galleries.

Robert C. Albright of The Washington Post was elected secretary.

They succeed, respectively, John A. Cleland of the Tulsa

Daily World and Charles W. Bailey II for the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, whose terms on the standing committee expired.

Barnet Nover of the Denver Post and Robert N. Branson of Federated Publications, were elected to the committee to replace Cleland and Bailey. Phillip L. Warden of the Chicago Tribune Press Service is the fifth member of the committee.
